Free X-ray Pictures On "Lakeside Day"

Lakeside citizens are urged to be among the 1600 persons to obtain free chest X-ray pictures during Lakeside day at the San Diego County Fair Thursday, July 3, Dr. F. P. O'Hara, County Tuberculosis and Health association president announced today.

The association booth in the industrial building will be open from noon to 8 p. m. daily, Dr. O'Hara said, and attendants will be equipped to take 200 X-ray photographs per hour.

"These pictures, which are confidential, will show whether, in the opinion of experts who interpret the film, the person should seek further examination and medical advice," Dr. O'Hara explained.

Funds obtained through the 1946 Christmas seal sale will enable the association to take more than 26,000 chest X-ray during the county fair, authorities said.

"Even apparently healthy people should take advantage of this opportunity," O'Hara pointed out, "for in this way tuberculosis in the lungs can be discovered in its earliest and least dangerous stages long before a person actually feels sick."

Quaint Shop Decorates

Have you been watching the various window displays being presented to the view of the public and passing tourists by the new Quaint Shop? If you haven't, we urge you to start your observation of this unique shop. Every three days new scenes are arranged to lend an ever-inviting atmosphere to the little store. Word has been floating back to town from tourists that have stopped to trade at the house with the unusual dutch door. They were enthralled by the interesting merchandise the shop has to offer its many visitors.

Osborne Sells Building

A deal was consumated by B. W. Osborne early this week whereby Robert C. Jordan, of El Cajon became the owner of the newly erected 3-unit business building, which was just completed a few weeks ago and represents one of Lakeside's most classy structures. The building designed for rentals and office space was at one time awhile back halted by the CPA in its early stage of construction. The new owner, Mr Jordan, was a former merchant at Glenview.

The Editor Bids You A Farewell Note

This issue represents the final edition to be presented to readers of the Star by it's present editor, Ralph R. Freeman, who founded the newspaper some 14 months ago, and now turns the piloting over to a new editor and owner, to be known to you as Paul B. Baker. There is, of course, a tinge of sadness in grinding out our last edition to you. Back of any publication there is to be found plenty of hard work and responsibility, but taking it on the chin happens to be to our liking, so long as we were getting our gentle readers to suffer along with us.

In saying farewell, we grieve to disband our business connections with the many fine people of Lakeside. We praise their fine co-operation and stamina in keeping the paper going and building it up to its present status.

My farewell note would not be complete without stating that I believe that Lakeside has a future ahead of it that will be worth your while to keep making it your home. Slow growth is always the better way to see towns grow up than those with the "boom" idea. Lakeside has much in common. Plenty to be proud of Plenty of power to defend herself. Plenty of boosters to keep it in a progressive trend.

THANK YOU, ONE AND ALL,
Ralph R. Freeman,
Publisher.

North Park Girl Wins "Fairest of Fair" Contest

A budding stage career had opened up today for vivacious, dark-haired Claire LeRoy of North Park--- winner of the San Diego County Fair's "Fairest of the Fair" competition.

Miss LeRoy won more than $1,000 in merchandise and a contract to appear in the "Fiestacade," which is one of the stellar attractions opening the big county-wide exposition tonight (Thursday) at Del Mar.

The 20-year old North Park lass was chosen the "fairest" from 20 other San Diego County beauties in the finals held at the Fox theater in San Diego ast Monday night.

Judges selected Miss LeRoy for her beauty, poise, charm and grace. Brunette Kay Katon, 24, of metropoliton San Diego was second and petite. blonde Jean Lofthouse, 16, of National City took third honors.

The newly-chosen queen, a graduate of Hoover high school, had planned to take charge of a girls' camp in Cuyamaca this summer, but now her plans are changed. The stage comes first.

Troop 45 had its first meeting in their new scout home Tuesday night First a little cleaning was done after which the troop was called to order and marched into the building. After pledging allegiance to the flag and repeating the oath and law, the patrol leader's reports were read. Then discussion as to the place where they will camp next was considered and debated and finally they decided to go to Lake Henshaw, Scouts are to meet at the scout house at two o'clock Friday.

To Whom It May Concern

The Lakeside Star effective on the 1st day of July, 1947 changes ownership and all bills outstanding that are due this publication must be settled promptly. In turn, this firm will be in a position to pay it's bills also.

Nestled in a sheltered spot just outside of Del Mar on Highway 101, the San Diego County Fair Grounds is readily accessible from all points in the County. The annual Fair opens Friday for a 10-day exposition which comes to an end July 6. Interest in the Fair is at an all-time peak, judging from the overflow of exhibits of farm and factory entered for prizes.

n Service Station Officially Opens June 28

Lakeside's newest business addition is the Lakeside Union Service Station that is to stage their official grand opening on Saturday, June 28, which is an event earnestly looked forward to for the past several weeks by ardent boosters of the town. The owner of the new station is F. G. Lucas, who has been a long-time resident of this area and an outstanding believer in the "Lakeside First," idea. His many friends look with interest to his new venture.

A picture of the new station appears on page 8 of this issue, and it is constructed of corrugated iron of the three quarter quoinset-hut style, which is proving very fashionable recently The station is ultra-modern in every detail and brings to town a new dispensing station for Union Oil Products and Minute Man Supplies.

The station will be operated by Clarence E. Pratt and assisted by his brother George, who are two well-known men of the valley, having been raised in the El Monte section.

F. L. Boyd real estate firm reports that Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Dunbar have sold their ranch in Lakeside Farms and have purchased the newly-built home of Roy C. Anderson on the Santee road.

FRANCES M. BURTCH DIES AT LA JOLLA

Saturday, June 21st, at 8:50 p. m. saw the passing of Frances M. Burtch She had been ill since the middle of March, and had been in a La Jolla hospital for the past two months.

To newcomers this means just another death notice,-just another one who has passed from the Shadows into the Real.

But to us who knew and loved her it means the passing of a dear friend and a faithful fellow-worker on whom we could always depend.

Many remember her unfailing kindness and courtesy. Not a day passed, during her lingering illness, but that two or three would stop and ask "What do you hear from Burtch?.

About all most of us leave behind is Memory, and all that we take with us is the character we have made. We pray that the Memory we leave will be good.

Frances Mildred Burtch, daughter of Johm Henry Burtch and Mary Ambrosia Nix, was born at Salina, Kansas, on April 19-1889. She was practically an only child as her two brothers died in infancy.

In 1892 the family moved to Calif., living for a short time at Sunnyside and at Dulzura. Most of her life Frances spent in and around Lakeside. Her father owned a farm on the north side of the river near the junction of San Vicente Creek, which was entirely washed away during the 1916 flood.

She attended the local grammar school and high schools, and also Pomona College.

She clerked in the old Lakeside Store and at one time was manager of it when it was owned by Klauber Wangenheim Co.

When Mr. C. W. Ross was Postmaster, Frances worked for him, and when Mr. L. J. Clevenger became Postmaster she worked for a time with him.

July 1-1933, when the present Postmaster assumed office, she was employed as clerk and has continued to the time of her last illness.

For a number of years the entire work of the office was handled by the three------ Frances, the Postmaster, and his wife.

She has been, for a number of years, the local "Registrar of Vital Statistics" and before joining the Post Office force, was Secretary of the Riverview Farms Mutual Water Company.

Funeral services for the beloved woman were held at 2 p. m. Thursday from the Paris Mortuary Chapel in El Cajon, with the body being laid to rest in Greenwood cemetery.

Reaches 25th Birthday

The B. R. Brown home on Lakeside Farms was the scene of a happy birthday party on Sunday afternoon in which R. E. Brown was the honoree, being his 25th birthday. The occasion, sponsored by his parents, represented by a family dinner and birthday cake. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ashfield arrived in the home as visitors. Young R. E. who is now employed at Campo, was born on Lakeside Farms about the time the Lakeside Bank was begun and to that institution he became the Bank's first and youngest depositor.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Magnuson, of San Diego, have purchased the Leo Popek home on Magnolia road, reports F. L. Boyd, who handled the deal.

B. W. Osborne left about the middle of the week for his old home in Indiana, where he will visit his mother and other relatives.

Keep the Missus happy and smiling by letting us install a water softner. The saving in soap and time will soon pay for it. Prices start at $82.00. Lakeside Builders Store.

Swim Pool Officially Opens Sat.

Of great interest to the populace of El Cajon Valley is the official opening of the Camp Gillespie Swimming pool on Saturday, June 28th at 2 o'clock in which the entire public is urged to come out and see the fun. Since the geographic location of the pool makes it easily accessible and convenient to Lakeside, it is anticipated that a sizeable turnout will come from this area. Opening of the pool, which at one time was in jeopard because of insufficient funds to operate, will mean a nearby swim resort to valley citizens and will save bathing fans the effort of making the long trek to the ocean.

At the dedication program the board of supervisors will naturally be present, along with all other high officials, which will include all Chamber of Commerce presidents, over the county, who are invited. For special entertainment Paul Wolf, a 50-meter Olympic swimming and diving champ, and the DeLong Sisters, Barbara and Beverly, national swim performers will be on hand for special exhibitions. Numerous divers will be pr for special entertainment.

The pool has been used by t lic for the past 10 days with a age daily attendance of 400 The newly constructed resort a fine addition to the Valley's and fun spots.

Miss Rowe Leads Co

Lakeside's '49 Queen con is coming a in a rather spirited fashion according to a preliminary count made Wednesday afternoon in which it was decided that Betty Jane Rowe was leading the list of 24 contestants with a total of 550 votes. Interest in the contest is apparently due to surge forward at an early date as the days gradually taper down to the approaching date of the celebration. At any rate the judges are counting the votes each week and they will advise us as to how the contestants are running.

U. S., Russia Fight Diplomatic Battle

'Truman Doctrine' Termed Preventive Against Conflict

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—There is no imminent danger of war between the United States and Russia.

You've heard that before, and as far as I know, it is true.

There is a diplomatic struggle going on between the two countries, the scope and importance of which few people realize.

When I say "important," I mean important in all senses but one—human life — in which a real, shooting war is important. Certainly involved are the other two factors in the trinity of rights to which Americans believe they are heir—liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Baukhage

This has been clear to observers in Washington whether they merely look with their eyes at the external evidence, or scent with news-noses the currents which are wafted over transoms and under the big oak doors of the sanctum sanctorum of the sanctissimi.

Sharp words have tumbled over one another since the first verbal barrage, which was the Presidential message of March 12, 1947, sometimes described as embodying the "Truman Doctrine." May I remind you of a few of the barbed shafts in that message?

"The very existence of the Greek [nation] is today threatened by the terrorist activities of several thousand armed men, led by Communists, who defy the government's authority at a number of points, particularly along the northern boundaries [of Greece]," said the President.

"One of the primary objectives of the foreign policy of the United States is the creation of conditions in which we and other nations will be able to work out a way of life free from coercion. . . .

"We shall not realize our objectives, however, unless we are willing to help free peoples to maintain their free institutions and their national integrity against aggressive movements that seek to impose upon them totalitarian regimes. This is no more than a frank recognition that totalitarian regimes imposed on free peoples, by direct or indirect aggression, undermine the foundations of international peace, and hence the security of the United States. . . .

"The peoples of a number of countries of the world have recently had totalitarian regimes forced upon them against their will. The government of the United States has made frequent protests against coercion and intimidation, in violation of the Yalta agreement, in Poland, Romania, and Bulgatia. I must also state that in a number of other countries there have been similar developments. . . ." (He knew what was in the Hungarian cards.)

"One way of life is based upon the will of the majority, and is distinguished by free institutions, representative government, free elections, guarantees of individual liberty, freedom of speech and religion, and freedom from political oppression. . . .

"The second way of life is based upon the will of a minority forcibly imposed upon the majority. It relies upon terror and oppression, a controlled press and radio, fixed elections and the suppression of personal freedoms."

Strong words, those—all quoted from the Truman message.

Congress Follows Words With Action

Then came deeds. Congress implemented the President's message by authorizing the loan of three hundred millions to Greece and one hundred millions to Turkey.

Missions were sent at once to both countries.

The United States concluded with Britain arrangements for an economic merger of their respective zones in Germany regardless of Russian (and French) failure to go along.

Then came the expected coup d'etat in which the Communists, with the Red army backing them and the aid of the Communist-controlled secret police, took over the anti-Communist government of Hungary. Immediately there followed these steps:

A message of congratulation and support was sent to the Premier of Italy. Alcide de Gasperi, then in the process of forming a government without Communist co-operation and against Communist opposition.

Negotiations leading to the "unfreezing" of Italian property (including money) in this country were announced at the same time.

Hungarian credits here for surplus property supplies were cut off. There were indications that a loan earmarked for Hungary would be cancelled.

A Hungarian-Russian transport company was told that its planes no longer could fly over the American zone in Germany.

Senator Vandenberg made his ringing speech in the senate declaring that Soviet pressure on Hungary demanded a trial before the forum of the United Nations."

The United States pressed for settlement of demands on Yugoslavia for planes shot down by Yugoslavia last summer.

These and other steps which undoubtedly will be taken before this article is in print, and still others in the making, are part of a vigorous foreign policy by which we mean to block Communist aggression wherever it appears in the world. In other words we have undertaken a form of positive activity in the foreign field, the scope of which has never been paralleled in our history.

Supporters of this policy (the majority of congress) believe it is a preventive, not an aggressive step.

They do not believe it is a foreign policy which von Clausewitz, the German military authority, described as something the "extension" of which is war. They believe it can stop, will not start, military conflict.

Possible War Of Extermination

The policy is based on this theory, as nearly as I can absorb it from the people who know:

Unless economic conditions are restored to normal throughout the world, chaos will result, communism will engulf Europe, and eventually the clash between communism and democracy as we understand it, will mean war between Russia and the United States. Since it now is believed that Russia will have the atom bomb in from four to ten years (cf. report of the President's advisory commission on universal training), such a war would mean extermination, if not of the human race, certainly of civilization as we know it.

Granted this is true, the spread of communism in Europe (and elsewhere) must be checked now because:

If either France or Italy goes Red, Russia will not co-operate in a joint peace agreement for Germany and Austria. Without such agreement, Europe cannot be restored to normal. Chaos and communism will follow.

If Russia is stopped in her tracks —if we can prevent her from moving south into Greece, Turkey and the Middle East, and west of the line she holds at present from her German zone south through the Balkans to Greece, she will be forced to stop aggression in Europe; forced to co-operate with the western powers for her own preservation.

That as I understand it, is what some people call the "Truman Doctrine." It isn't quite fair to give it such an exclusive label when it never could have been put into effect without the yeoman service of men like Vandenberg and the other bi-partisan support it has received.

This does not mean that we have "lost faith in democracy" or its ability to compete in a fair field with communism. It means we are going to see that a fair field is maintained; that Russia will not be permitted to create chaos or to draw on the type of force and terror she has used so far (latterly in Hungary), to enforce her way of life upon the world.

NEWS REVIEW

Sugar Rationing Halted; Retail Meat Prices Soar

IT'S OVER:
Sugar Is Back

For the first time since April 28, 1942, Americans, and especially housewives, could go shopping without ration coupons as the government called a halt to the rationing of sugar for households, restaurants and hotels.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson announced the move, explaining that it was made possible by the appearance of larger supplies of sugar than previously had been thought available.

Price controls on sugar, as well as rationing of the product for industrial use will continue, however. All sugar controls are scheduled to expire October 31 unless congress dictates otherwise.

Three reasons which [illegible] ing about an end to sugar ration ing were:

1. Allotment by the International Emergency food council to the United States of 350,000 tons of sugar from Cuba in addition to that which was allotted earlier in the year.

2. Presence of still more surplus sugar in Cuba, which will help cut down demands from other parts of the world.

3. About 200,000 tons of Javanese sugar now will be offered to world users.

UP AGAIN:
Meat Prices

Rapid, and in some cases unexplained, advances in the retail prices of meat have been reported from many sections of the country.

Some of the reasons offered for the price jumps were: Seasonal influences, higher feed costs, heavy foreign purchases. In a number of instances, however, packers admitted that they were puzzled over the sharp increase in retail prices.

Steak, which sold for 70 to 80 cents a pound six months ago, was being listed as high as $1.25 in Scranton, Pa., and a dollar in New York. In Chicago, retail meat prices experienced a general increase of 10 cents or more on popular and scarce cuts in mid-June.

There was one bright prediction, however: When the autumn beef run begins, prices are expected to drop as much as 25 per cent.

HARSH WORDS:
Note to Russia

The United States has accused Russia of using threats and coercion to instigate the recent Communist coup d'etat in Hungary.

A strongly worded note to the Soviet union charged the Soviet commander in Hungary with violating terms of the Yalta agreement which guaranteed that liberated nations would retain their sovereignty.

Implicit, but not specifically stated, in the note was a warning that the United States will call for a United Nations investigation of the circumstances under which Hungary's democratic regime was overthrown and Communist rule installed.

Main proposal embodied in the protest was that the United States, Great Britain and Russia make a joint investigation of the political situation in Hungary. Russia previously rejected two earlier American requests for such a probe.

The U. S. position is that Hungarian Premier Nagy was forced to exile and was compelled to resign in order to make way for the Communist seizure of power.

PUSHBUTTON:
Look, No Hands

"Pushbutton" automatic flight, a new field in aviation, was ushered in when a pilotless four-engine army transport plane landed at Wilmington, Ohio, after a 2,000-mile trip from Long Beach, Calif., during which no member of the crew touched the controls.

It was the longest flight of its kind to be completed wholly by means of the pushbutton automatic system, not to be confused with drone planes or remote control flight.

In the automatic flight set-up, all necessary flight data was fed electrically into a master control panel from within the plane itself.

Advocates Training

Dr. Karl T. Compton, chairman of commission on universal military training, told congress that plan for UMT was "conceived as a means of safeguarding liberty and not as a means of preparing for war."

FAVORABLE FORECAST

Wheat Crop To Hit New Peak

WASHINGTON.—Despite the wet, cold spring, a record-shattering wheat crop of 1,409,800,000 bushels is indicated this year, according to the department of agriculture forecast based on conditions as of June 1. The inclement weather, particularly in May, was unfavorable for planting of some feed grains but wheat, the forecast pointed out.

The prospective wheat crop, largest on record, compares with 1,275,000,000 bushels forecast a month ago and 1,155,715,000 bushels harvested last year, a record up to that time. The 10-year average production is 843,692,000 bushels.

The government forecast showed the winter wheat prospect to be 1,093,071,000 bushels and 316,822,000 bushels for spring wheat.

The wet spring was responsible for a reduced acreage of oats, the report said, and a crop of only 1,247,333,000 bushels is in prospect. This compares with 1,509,867,000 bushels harvested last year.

No estimate was made of the corn crop as it is too early in the season for a reasonable degree of accuracy, but the report said that the abnormally cool, wet weather of May caused 20 to 25 per cent of the corn acreage to remain unplanted on June 1, which is rather late.

An unequalled winter wheat crop is in prospect for all of the Great Plains area, and Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado expect record production, the report said. While growth and development of the crop was delayed by a cold wet spring in all but the Pacific coast states, losses from wet weather have been slight to date.

In the earliest sections of Texas and Oklahoma harvest got under way around June 1, at least 10 days later than last year.

Major spring wheat states had fairly favorable weather conditions early in May, which enabled growers to plant close to their intended acreage, although seeding was somewhat later than usual. The crop went into the ground several weeks later than usual in the Dakotas and Minnesota, where about three-fourths of the acreage is grown, but the plantings were under favorable moisture conditions.

Summer Fruits and Berries Tell Us That It's Jam Time

To make jams or jellies, select ripe berries and pick them over carefully so you will have no sour or bitter taste in the jam. Wash the berries thoroughly before working with them.

Although it's the fruit or vegetable that keeps us going on the job from day to day with its vitamins and minerals, it's the luscious fruit jams, butters or conserves that lift meals from the humdrum to the elegant. So, homemakers, plan to add delight to next winter's meals.

If you need a further excuse to make them, you may consider them from an economy standpoint, for jam on the bread or roll will not take nearly as much of the expensive spreads. Fruits and berries, this season, are among the best, and are really very reasonable in price compared to what they have been previously.

When you make jam, jelly, butter or conserve, make a small batch. This takes less time and allows for less failure. Cooking in small quantity also saves the color of the fruit, and appearance is as important in jam as is its eating quality.

If you want some good spreads for next winter make fruit and berry butter, as these do not take as much sugar as some of the others.

Blueberry-Apple Butter.
2 quarts blueberries
2 quarts apple pulp
2 quarts sugar
1 tablespoon ground spices

Wash and slice tart apples. Add water to cover and cook until soft. Press through a sieve and measure. Boil apple pulp, blueberries, sugar and spices until thick. Pour hot into sterile jars and process 10 minutes in a hot water bath.

Cantaloupe-Peach Conserve.
4 cups diced cantaloupe
4 cups diced peaches
6 cups sugar
4 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup blanched almonds
¼ teaspoon salt

Cook cantaloupe and peaches together for 20 minutes. Add sugar and lemon juice; boil rapidly until thick. Add nutmeg, nuts and salt. Pour, boiling hot, into sterilized jars and seal at once with paraffin.

Elderberry Jam.

Wash, stem and measure, then slightly crush the berries. Add 2 tablespoons vinegar and 3 cups sugar to each quart of berries. Boil until thick and pour into hot sterile jars. Seal at once.

Concord Grape and Plum Jam.
(Makes 10 6-ounce glasses)
4 cups prepared fruit
7 cups sugar
½ bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, slip skins from 1½ pounds fully ripe grapes. Bring pulp to a boil and simmer, covered, for 5 minutes. Remove seeds by putting through a sieve. Chop or grind skins and add to pulp. Pit, but do not peel, about 1½ pounds of fully ripe damson plums. Cut into small pieces and crush thoroughly. Add ¼ cup water, bring to a boil, cover, and simmer 15 minutes. Combine fruits.

Measure sugar and prepared fruit into a large saucepan, filling up last cups with water, if necessary. Mix well. Bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute.

Remove from fire and stir in fruit pectin. Stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes, to cool slightly and prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly and top with paraffin at once.

Blackberry Jam.
4½ cups prepared fruit
6½ cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare the fruit: Crush completely, one layer at a time, about 2 quarts of fully ripe blackberries. If desired, sieve half of pulp to remove some of the seeds. Measure berries into large saucepan.

To make the jam: Measure sugar and set aside. Place saucepan with fruit over hot fire. Add powdered fruit pectin and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, skim, ladle quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once.

True marmalades are really soft fruit jellies, and are wonderful to use for spreads when lunch box problems come up during fall and winter. Have a few choice jars on hand to take care of the situation.

Cherry-Raspberry Conserve.
3 cups pitted cherries
1 cup chopped pineapple
1 cup raspberry pulp
4 cups sugar

Run cherries and pineapple through food chopper. Add raspberries which have been thoroughly crushed, and sugar. Heat slowly until sugar dissolves, then boil rapidly until thick. Pour into hot, sterilized jars and seal at once.

When you make jam or jelly, it's a good idea to check and prepare the jars in advance. Get some help with the fruit or berries, if it's at all possible. Have all ingredients measured out before you start cooking, as you will have to be right on the spot to watch out for scorching. With these tips in mind, the preparation will take on a simplicity you never dreamed possible.

Cherry Marmalade.
2 oranges
1 quart pitted cherries
4 tablespoons lemon juice
3½ cups sugar

Run oranges through food chopper. Cover with water and boil until soft. Cool. Add cherries, lemon juice and sugar. Boil to jellying point. Pour into jars and top with paraffin at once.

Raspberry-Currant Marmalade.
2 quarts raspberries
1 quart currants
9 cups sugar

Measure berries and currants after stemming and cleaning. Crush currants. Cook slowly until juice flows freely. Add raspberries and heat slowly to boiling. Add sugar and stir until dissolved. Boil rapidly to jellying point. Pour quickly into hot, sterile jars and seal with paraffin at once.

Note: The currants are cooked longer than the raspberries because they are more firm and do not lose color as quickly as the more delicate fruit.

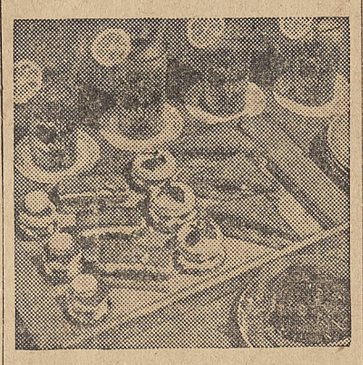
LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

Breaded Pork Chops Applesauce
Candied Sweet Potatoes
Vegetable Salad
Butterscotch Pudding
Beverage



You can put jams and jellies to use this summer, by making light sandwich refreshments from them to serve with cooling fruit juices. Fruit juices also may be canned for later use as jelly.

LYNN SAYS:
Keep on Your Toes When Making Jelly

How do you know when jelly meets specifications? It is clear, tender and sparkling. It has retained its fresh fruit or berry flavor; it holds its shape when turned from the glass, but is soft enough to be spread with a knife.

For jelly it's preferable to use containers that have a wide enough mouth from which to slip the jelly on a plate.

Test for acid by tasting. If it lacks, add some lemon juice.

Fully ripe fruits make the tastiest jellies, but most of these have insufficient pectin to make jelly. It is best to use one-half ripe berries and one-half not-so-ripe ones.

If you like a spiced jelly, drop a bag of mixed spices into the juice while it is first cooking.

Use wide-bottomed pans for cooking the jelly so that the juice will cook quickly and not lose too much of its color while cooking.

TO HEAD MISSION . . . Dwight P. Griswold, former Republican governor of Nebraska, has been named by President Truman to head U. S. mission to administer American aid to hard-pressed Greece.

Cleaning Nylons

To help get your nylons clean safely and with little work, use lukewarm water and a mild soap, the same as you use for any washable, fine fabric. Rinse well without wringing or twisting and your fabric will last longer. Do not force dry or hang colored fabrics directly on or above a radiator. They may fade if you do. Direct sunlight may also fade such material. Properly finished nylon fabric is highly resistant to wrinkling and only requires touching up with a warm iron. Do not use a hot iron. Ironing the wrong side when your garment is slightly damp helps to take out wrinkles. You can use most cleaning agents on nylon. Because of the nature of some dyes, it is a good idea to try a bit on an inconspicuous part of the garment first. If there is any doubt, send your garment to a reliable dry cleaner.

2 Seconds To Go!

By NORMAN S. BORTNER

I WONDERED why I shouldn't let Carl Bullard drown. It wasn't that I hated him. He was a nice enough fellow. Just a boy, of course, and too sentimental and too soft and too rich. If only he hadn't married Constance. I'd have saved him in half a minute, but for that . . . Instead, I watched the water swirl over his head—and wondered.

No one could know what I had done—that I had killed him almost as much as if I had pushed him down and held him under the surface.

How could they ever know? I was quiet and still on the edge of the pier with my feet dangling in the cool water and a cigarette between my fingers. Behind me sat Carl Bullard's wife talking calmly with some of her guests, and behind her the shore-line of Carl Bullard's land stretched away serene and smooth to Carl Bullard's roomy house on the opposite side of Carl Bullard's cove.

This Week's Best Fiction

And I stared down between my toes at Carl Bullard's white body in the water.

He had looked straight at me as he went down. It was a queer, tortured, pleading sort of a look, as if he knew exactly what was happening to him and was trying to tell me with his eyes. He had opened his mouth to cry out, shipped a full gasp of water into that boyish chest of his and gone down with hardly more than a ripple. Cramps, I guess. I'd seen the same thing before, but not so quick.

The cove was twelve feet deep at the end of the pier, and greenly translucent to the yellow, sandy bottom. It seemed almost too clear—too innocent—to kill a man, but I knew it was happening. I could see Carl Bullard's slow, convulsive thrashing. He was not yet half-way down.

How long would it be before he touched the sand? Two seconds? Ten? But how eternally long a second can be . . .

Constance had warned him. Said it was too soon after lunch. Said he ought to wait a while. But he had laughed in that small-boy way he had and chucked her under the chin. And then he had run across the pier to jump in over my head. I could still feel the little breeze of his passing. It was cold on my wet back.

It was the chin-chucking, I think, that made me sit still while he sank. Constance was not a woman to be chucked under the chin. You wouldn't sing swing in a church, would you? That's what I mean.

I'm a fine one to talk about churches, but that's what Constance does to me. Yesterday I saw her for the first time in three years, and it's worse with me now than it was then. A lot worse. Deeper. Not boy-and-girl stuff any more. Man and woman. And she's married to Carl Bullard.

She would have married me if things had gone right. They hadn't, though. I thought a year in Buenos Aires—at an unbelievable salary—would give me my start. Instead of that, three years in Buenos Aires and amazing bad luck at any and all forms of gambling gave me a taste for living and little to live on. Three years. . . .

There had been letters between us, the first few months. "Gee, I miss you Connie. Wish my year was up." "I miss you too, Aleck. Seems like a year already. Keep writing often."

BUT the letter slowed down after a while, and then stopped altogether. My fault, I know. I couldn't keep lying to her about the money. I was supposed to be saving it.

It was well in my second year that I heard she'd been married. The news filtered down to me one way or another. I didn't mind, then. I had other diversions.

Three years is a long time. Almost as long as it was taking Carl Bullard to reach the yellow sand. He was near it, now, and not clearly outlined. Just a slow-moving blur. . . . Three years was enough to give me a lifetime's fill of everything Argentinian.

Somehow Constance heard I had come back, and she wrote to me. Just a friendly, welcome-back note. That meant she held no hard feelings. The boy-and-girl stuff was done with.

And yet I suddenly wanted to see her, talk with her. I found her here at the cove. She was still the Constance I remembered, if a little subdued, a little settled and satisfied.

But there was something in her eyes, when she looked at me, that made me wish I'd never gone away from her. A glow. Not just friendliness. More than that.

It was the glow in her eyes that kept me at the cove. I wouldn't have stayed at the Bullard place except for that.

A flock of guests as dull and chattering as guests always are. A husband who kept grinning at her like a gawky boy, and patting her arm and chucking her under the chin. The glow in her eyes—whenever she looked at me—made up for all of that.

I wanted to take my stare from Carl Bullard's body—now nearly on the sand—and look over my shoulder toward Constance. I wanted to see those glowing eyes again, meeting mine. But I didn't move.

Instead I thought of something very interesting. If I were to sit still only a little longer, the pier and the house and the cove—and a great deal more—would belong to Constance. She'd be wealthy, and with a glow in her eyes when she looked at me.

Three years in the Argentine for nothing, and three minutes on Carl Bullard's pier—for everything I wanted. Why shouldn't I let Carl Bullard drown?

IT'S STRANGE, when you're tense and still, how all your senses become sharp beyond normality. While I watched the greenish-white blur that was Carl Bullard, the feminine voices behind me, which before had been unintelligible, became clear and distinct. Constance talking to her guests.

"That water looks so good," she said. "I wish I could go in."

"Why don't you, Connie? I wondered why you hadn't."

"Sh-h-. Doctors orders."

There was a pause. "Connie! You don't—?"

"You might as well know now as later, I guess. . . . It'll be in December. Haven't you noticed the way I've put on weight?"

"Why, my dear, we had no idea! But now I know why Carl has been so attentive. And that sparkle in your eyes, Connie. All the signs . . ."

The sparkle in her eyes. The glow.

Carl Bullard's body was on the sand at last, tumbling awkwardly, shapelessly.

My cigarette dropped into the water. I heard it hiss. And then I dived in without taking time to stand. Carl Bullard's grip nearly broke my arm. . . .

How long would it be before he touched the sand? Two second? Ten? But how eternally long a second can be . . .

YOU CAN WHIP NERVOUSNESS

After we'd spent an hour together in his hotel room, this man and I, I was almost as nervous as he was. During that hour he had paced up and down, his hands shaking, his eyes glancing furtively to all corners of the room.

I don't need to tell you, do I, how ineffective a personality he was? You know, of course, that nervousness is fatal to a personality, yet nerve specialists tell me that three out of four persons "wear their nerves on the outside of their clothes."

Take the most successful person you know, the one with the most effective personality. Was not that person a serene person?

Some men and women tell me that they are nervous because they were born nervous. I think the man who had the most calmness and serenity I have ever known, when I commended him upon these things, remarked that he wasn't born with them at all. He said he had to acquire them.

"Up till three years ago I was the most nervous person in the world," he told me. "Then an old doctor put me on the right track. He advised me, each night when the day's work was done to go home, take a leisurely hot bath, put on pajamas and get into bed for twenty minutes, not to sleep, but merely to relax all over."

That practice not only robbed him of nervousness, but made him much more effective in everything he did.

Hitler Hope for Red Peace Told

Planned to Keep 1943 Pact From Allies; Continue Lend-Lease.

WASHINGTON.—Hope for a Nazi armistice with Russia in 1943, which would have been kept secret from the western Allies and in which the Soviets would have continued to draw lend-lease from the United States, came to light in captured German naval documents.

Bombing of the United States with a new high-speed, long-range six-engine plane also was considered but was abandoned in July, 1943, "because the few airplanes which could get there would be of no significance but would only arouse the will to resist in the population."

Sought Rocket Use.

Adm. Karl Doenitz, as commander in chief of the navy, wanted to use the V-1 robot bomb or the V-2 rocket, to attack Allied shipping at Gibraltar in the summer of 1943. But Hitler vetoed the plan because of "the risk that some of the new weapons might fall on land at Gibraltar and that the British will find out what they are." It was not until the following year that they were loosed at London.

The reference to the plan for a Russian armistice did not make clear whether it actually had been submitted to the Soviets. The complete reference was as follows:

"We can hope to win the war only if we can stop expending our forces in the east. So far Japan has not been used for this purpose, for fear of weakening Japan in the south by engaging her in the north. Also, she might not be able to muster the necessary supplies for both fronts.

Eye Jap Raid.

"The Japanese Kwantung army stands ready with a million men. Japan herself evidently realizes that intervention in Siberia may become necessary.

"Russia is getting considerable supplies via the Far East. Therefore the question arises whether a threat by Japan that she will enter the war against Russia will help to make the latter accept the German offer of an unannounced armistice on the eastern front, to be kept secret from the Anglo-Saxons. Russia would continue to accept lend-lease materials. This political goal is worth every sacrifice.

"If this fails, the east wall must be built as quickly as possible."

Germany's defeat was beginning to appear likely that summer, although none of the high army and navy leaders around Hitler wanted to be the first to say so.

Hitler himself was looking for "an unexpected way out" to present itself, as he declared wistfully, it had many times in history.

The situation was "perilous," he admitted, but he hoped that the Allies would fall out among themselves the nearer they got to success.

Yugoslav Refugees Going To Dominican Republic

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—The foreign office announced that between 5,000 and 10,000 Yugoslav refugees would be brought from Italy to colonize a new industrial development area along the Haitian border. No date has been set for the departure.

Constantin Fotitch, former Yugoslav ambassador to the United States who recently was sentenced in absentia to 20 years' imprisonment by Premier Marshal Tito's Yugoslav regime, is head of the committee planning the migration.

The foreign office said that modern cities to house the colonists would be built in Cibao, near the Haitian border, and also at Constanza. A smiliar Jewish colony was established in 1940 at Sosua, on the north coast.

Germans Get Big Scare as Can of Popcorn Lets Go

FORT WAYNE, IND.—Mrs. Ronald Byrer thought she would tuck in a can of popcorn when she sent a parcel to the Schmidts in Minden, Germany.

In a letter of appreciation from the Schmidts, Mrs. Byrer learned that the popcorn frightened the Schmidts and their friends. The Schmidts invited neighbors in to enjoy the treat from America—then they put the corn on the fire as per directions.

But they neglected to cover the pan, and the rattle and explosions scared off the guests—and the Schmidts.

United States Soldier in Rome Fined as Disorderly

ROME.—Pvt. Walter L. Florek of College Point, N. Y., was fined $25 by a court-martial which convicted him of disorderly conduct.

The court made no mention of a charge that Florek had mishandled the Yugoslav flag in a Belgrade bar, and found him innocent of a charge that he had insulted the Russian flag.

Florek, 20, told the court he had overheard Yugoslav civilians in the bar comment that "Americans have no right to fly over our territory. . . . It is a good thing those fliers were killed."
